19 YEAR BOOK 68

Bravo Company is part of the oldest Corps Signal Battalion in the United States Army. Its history and deeds span over some 51 years and are too many to list here. The Company participated in two World Wars and the Korean Conflict where it was awarded a Meritorious Unit Commendation by Headquarters Eighth Army. This Commendation was awarded the Company when it spanned the Han River with cable-under enemy observation and within range of enemy artillery and mortar fire, fighting a current of seven knots and tides up to 35 feet. In spite of these conditions the mission was accomplished in twelve days.

Today, Bravo Company is an aggressive, vibrant organization dedicated to "Keeping the shooters talking". It has the critical mission of providing the administrative and tactical command communications link between the United States Eighth Army and the front line divisions in Korea. The success of tactical operations and of the United Nations forces in Korea depends greatly on the efficiency of these communications. The Company has a history of accomplishments and deeds both military and humanitarian in which its members and the nation can be proud. The Battalion Standard, which rests today in Uijongbu, Korea, eight thousand miles from which the organization had its genesis, is decorated with sixteen battle streamers. These streamers represent the sweat, the blood, and the tears of many like you who did the job which a thankful nation asked.

THE LONGEST ARMISTICE

Korea is still in a state of war. A peace treaty has never been signed. United Nations and Communist forces still oppose the Communists along the border. In a period of suspended hostilities, the armistice has concluded more than a dozen conferences. A peace conference has not yet been held. The Armistice Agreement is the longest in the world.

JOINT OBSERVER TEAMS

Under the terms of the Armistice, five Joint Observer Teams conduct investigations at the site of serious violations within the Demilitarized Zone. Each team comprises six field grade officers—three from each side and administrative assistants.

The Military Armistice Commission, or the Senior Member of either side, is authorized to dispatch a Joint Observer Team to investigate any violations reported in the Demilitarized Zone. In practice, however, neither side has exercised its authority since each reserves the right to prohibit entry into its half of the zone.
